1 It's easy to do

Recycling at work is straightforward and easy to do. It's easy to separate out materials to recycle from your other waste, if you get a good system in place.

2 It saves space and can reduce clutter

Recycling often reduces clutter and improves the working environment. Less clutter also means increased safety around the workplace.

3 It's good to the environment

Taking part in the Recycle at Work scheme will help you reduce the environmental impact of your business.

Recycling or composting your waste materials means they can be used again in new products and applications, instead of simply going to landfill where they generate harmful greenhouse gas emissions. Recycling at work is the sensible, sustainable thing to do.

4 It feels good to do

The feel good factor of recycling at work is undeniable. Of the 556 businesses who took part in the first phase of the Recycle at Work scheme, nearly half identified employee morale as the best reason to undertake a recycling scheme. 82% stated that their people needed no encouragement when it came to recycling their waste!

But to help you even more, we can give you a suite of display and guidance materials to help your employees recycle at work and show them what they need to do.

5 It's cost-effective

Recycling is a cost-effective method of dealing with your waste, simply because it is often cheaper when compared with general waste disposal. In many cases, businesses have been able to save money on services like paper recycling.
